SHORTRIDGE GOT REVENCE ball yesterday with the Indianapolis Academy five by a score of 11 to 8.

DEFEATED M. T. H. S. IN EXCITING BASKETBALL GAME.

School's Defense Was Weak-Butler Easily Defeated by Y. M. C. A.

Played. Won. Lost. Pct. S. H. S., 18; M. T. H. S., 15.

Y. M. C. A., 58; Butler, 22 The Shortridge basketball five demonstrated its superiority over the Manual Training School five in the final game of the season at the Cyclorama, last night, by a winning score of 18 to 15. The game was captured by Shortridge by superior playing, the blue and white boys playing all around the Training School players until the latter part of the contest.

Every seat in the place was taken, and the supporters of the two schools made things merry by their school yells and songs. Shortridge turned out the most rooters, and they were more in evidence during the game, as there was hardly any time that the S. H. S. five was not safely in the lead. Toward the latter part of the game, when M. T. H. S. took a brace and scored a few points, the M. T. H. S. rooters could be heard trying to cheer their team to victory. The absence of Jack Shideler, formerly captain of the M. T. H. S. team, was felt, and with Raffensperger also out of the game the M. T. H. S. five was a weak proposition when it entered the game. The defense of Training School was weak, and there was practically no offensive work during the early part of the contest. The attempts at goal from field by the red and the only one able to place the ball in the basket. His throwing from foul was also good. Training School did not take a brace until toward the close of the second half, but Shortridge was too far in the lead for M. T. H. S. to come near winning. La Follette, Churchill and Pratt played to the Richmond or the Indianapolis & the most points, but the defensive work of Appel and Gipe prevented M. T. H. S. from running up a dangerous score.

> GAME IN DETAIL. The game in detail follows: Shortridge was not long in getting in the game, and scored a field goal two minutes after play. Gipe sent the ball down the field to La Follette, who put it in the basket. One minute later, by good team work, the blue and white succeeded in getting the ball to their basket and Churchill threw a goal. The Manual team scored its first point when Bohnstadt threw the goal on a foul by Churchill. An exceedingly pretty piece of team work was then executed by Pratt and La Follette, who carried the ball the entire length of the field, and the latter threw a goal. Bohnstadt fouled and La Follette threw the goal, after which Pratt added to the scoring by throwing another goal on a foul. Good team work put the ball in Shortridge territory again and Pratt made another basket. A foul by La Follette allowed Bohnstadt to throw a goal, and then Appel committed a similar offense, which permitted Bohnstadt to add one to the red and white side:

A double foul gave each school one point more, as Bohnstadt and La Follette both took advantage of the free throw. La Foilette and Churchill again distinguished themselves by taking the ball down the field, and Churchill threw goal. While the ball was around the M. T. H. S. basket Bohnstadt made a field goal, and soon the half ended with the score 13 to 6 in favor of Shortridge.

SECOND HALF. The second half was a series of fouls owing to the hard playing on both sides. M. T. H. S. put up a much better argument in this half than at the start, and got within hailing distance of the opposing five. Bohnstadt fouled and La Follette threw the goal. Appel caused the red and white score stadt to make the goal. A foul by Spohr and La Follette successfully making the point put S. H. S. followers in good spirits. Pratt fouled and Bohnstadt again threw the goal. A little later La Follette added a point to the blue and white score on a foul by Wheeler. Another foul by Pratt caused M. T. H. S. to get nearer, when Bohnstadt threw the goal. A double foul was then made, and while the partisans took a breathing spell Bohnstadt made another point and La Follette missed his chance. At this juncture Diddel was hurt and his place was taken by Gaston. Appel kept Shortridge's end of the score up by throwis a son of J. W. Huston, of this county, a ing a goal on a foul by Bohnstadt, and a prominent farmer. The young couple will little later Bohnstadt did the same on a foul by Pratt. Gipe fouled and Bohnstadt threw a goal. The play at this point was the fiercest in the game. The ball during the second half was near the S. H. S. basket a greater part of the time, and just a short time before call of time Bohnstadt made a pretty field goal, aided by Ayres deputy, are at the head of the project, and and Wheeler, who helped take the ball already have secured contracts for over down the field. No more scoring was done

'Mr. Long has improved during the day.' said Dr. J. W. Spooner, his physician, "and if he continues to do so for two or three days I believe he will recover. Under present conditions, if nothing turns up, I expect Mr. Long to get along all right." The following bulletin was issued at 2 o'clock this (Sunday) morning: "Temperature, 100.4; pulse, 80; respiration, 22." Dr. Spooner did not make any comment on the Police Were. Powerless to Control Lawlessness and the Cars Stopped. WATERBURY, Conn., Jan. 31 .- The trolley strike to-night reached the proportions of a riot. Every car sent out from the La Follette, 7; Appel, 1. Missed goals from barns was greeted with a volley of stones at various points and no car escaped without broken windows. Thousands of people filled the streets. The police were powerless to control the lawless persons and requested the Connecticut Railway and Lighting Company to call in the cars. The request was complied with, and the last car pulled into the barn at midnight escorted by the police. Several motormen were se-

"In supplying society women with sec-retaries or companions," said the woman superintendent of a noted employment agency, "it has been our experience that pride goeth a long way before need. Oftentimes women who have become suddenly rich, and who never have a pretense of anything approaching breeding, secure as a secretary or companion a girl who has taken all the advantages in the way of a free education that the city could give her. We sent one such girl out a month ago to a customer near St. Patrick's Cathedral. At the end of her first month she was here

Brooklyn Eagle. What queer quirks a good and obedient mind will sometimes take? A clergyman of exceptional scholarly attainments tells me that he once wrote what he, at the moment, conceived to be the word "righteous." The nature of his calling ought to suggest that, of all words, this one should be among the most familiar to him; and, indeed, it was. Yet when he had written it, it did not look right. After puzzling over it for some time he concluded that it must end with "lous" instead of "eous," as he had written it. Finally, in a mental muddle, he went to his unabridged dictionary, but was amazed at finding no such word there. Deferring further search, for the nonce, he completed his letter and then opened the dictionary again. This time he found the word all right and in its proper place, a fact which, he said, would have been a warning to him if he had been a drinking

The explanation of it was, that by some unaccountable freak he had got it into his noddle that it was spelled "ritcheous." He had spelled it so in his letter and had, of course, looked on the wrong page of the dictionary for it in the first instance. By the time he looked again the crotchet was out of his mind and he knew how to spell the word as well as Webster did.

Do You Know What a "Seg" Is?

The study of slang in the making has always been hampered by the fact that no investigator ever sees the inventor at his work. In some college student's room, behind the screens of a drinking hall, or among the roustabouts of the levee the words and highly colored phrases taken up by the world so readily have probably first been altered. Where lived the man who coined the word "chump?" Who first thought of saying to his rival, "Go 'way know, and the inquirer has to be contented with inferior specimens for study. New Orleans Times-Democrat. When Mrs. Julia Dent Grant was living in Philadelphia, in the house at No. 2003 Chestnut street, that her husband surrendered to his creditors at the time of the Grant & Ward failure, it is recorded of her that she was visited one afternoon by a rich but parsimonious old woman. The old woman narrated to Mrs. Grant the misfortunes that had lately attended a ward of hers, a young woman-who had married a drug kard and who had just been deserted though she was penniless and had two lit-"I couldn't help but feel for her this morning when she told me about her trouble." said the old woman.
